Memorial Union Policy Board to balance budget

by DARLENE HAMMERSCHMIDT
Staff Reporter

The Memorial Union Policy Board (MUPB) has been reactivated by Stephen Wood, director of the Memorial Union, after five years of dormancy.

In 1958, when the first section of the union was under construction, the policy board was organized to assist the director in forming policies for the union operation. The board remained strong through the completion of the union addition in 1970. Wood stated that the board gradually weakened, until several years ago when it ceased to exist.

While searching for a new director, a set of guidelines was drawn up so that the new director could utilize the policy board if he so desired. Wood has chosen to do so.

The board, according to the guidelines, is made up of six students appointed by the student body president, the director of the union, the program director of the union, a chairperson for the Memorial Union Activities Board, a representative of the dean of students and three members of the teaching faculty as appointed by the president of the university.

The appointed board members for the 1977-78 year are: Judy Schweer, Garden City senior; Howard Brown, Hays sophomore; Sabrena Gibbs, Jermore senior; Rick Tramp, Phillipsburg senior; Steven Sublette, Wichita sophomore; Bob Wasinger, Hays junior; Cindy Bachman, Atwood senior; Leona Pfeifer, assistant professor of German; John Thorns, chairman of the Art Department; Stephen Wood, director of the Memorial Union; Cindy Balthazor, program director for the union; Dorothy Knoll, assistant dean of students; and Chuck Wilhelm, professor of speech.

The board has been meeting on a weekly basis since early September. Wood hopes that by the second semester they will be able to meet on a monthly basis rather than a weekly basis.

Since the first meeting, the board has studied the history of the board itself, the Memorial Union and the Association of college Unions International, which the union has been a member of for 20 years. They have also reviewed and re-established the policies utilized by previous boards and revised them to apply to the present situation.

Presently, the board is studying the 1977-78 budget proposal and trying to find ways to balance next year's budget. In the future, the board will be touring the union to select areas that need redecoration during the coming year.

Several areas have already been chosen for renovation and the changes will appear in the near future. The Frontier Room, the Trails Room and the Prairie Room will be repainted and new carpeting and draperies installed. Bids for these projects have been awarded by the state to Vitium's Carpet Center and Rohr's Drapery of Hays. Wood anticipates these renovations to take place before the end of October. In addition, the Black and Gold Room floor will be refinished during the Thanksgiving vacation by Hiltz Incorporated.

Wood said, "It is my feeling that the policy board has been acting in a very responsible manner, and I am confident that the board will be a real asset to the Memorial Union during this year and years to come."

The policies that have been approved and passed by the board are:

1. Student, faculty and university sponsored groups will be given priority in the use of the union facilities. Second priority will be given to groups from outside the university.

2. The Memorial Union Policy Board reserves the right to assign all office space and determine all use of floor space within the union.

3. All food consumed in the Memorial Union will be prepared and served by ARA. This will not include sack lunches carried in by students, faculty and staff or food service projects approved by the Union director.

4. Posters and advertisements will only be permitted on appropriate bulletin boards and on the concrete wall just inside the front door. All posters and advertisements must first be approved and stamped in the union director's office. All other materials will be removed by the union staff.

5. Classes may be scheduled occasionally in the Memorial Union so long as there is no conflict with other union uses. Permanent scheduling of classes is prohibited with the exception of some of the recreation facilities.

6. The Memorial Union will comply with the current campus beer policy.

7. No equipment will be loaned from the Memorial Union without permission from the bookstore manager.

8. All decorations for parties, dances, etc., must be approved by the union director. Only masking tape will be permitted for use on walls and ceilings.

9. Checks will be cashed in the union director's office from 8 a.m.-noon and from 12:30 p.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The check limit is $10.

Debate questions survival

Author Reid Buckley and columnist Max Lerner will debate the question "Will the American Republic Survive into the 21st Century?" at 8 p.m. Monday in the Memorial Union Ballroom.

General admission to the debate is $2; the price is 75 cents with an activity ticket.

Buckley will take the position that the American republic will not survive into the next century; Lerner believes the republic will survive and will argue from this stance.

The youngest brother of columnist William F. Buckley Jr. describes himself as "a Christian libertarian conservative," adding that "in this day and age, how radical can you get?"

Lerner, whose column is syndicated by the Los Angeles Times, is also an author and professor. His best-selling book is America as a Civilization and he is currently working on a new study of American civilization in the 1960s and 1970s.

Buckley's novel Eye of the Hurricane, stressed the depredations Americans have committed on nature and their spiritual and political heritage. He also wrote Servants and Their Masters and is currently working on a novel set in Chile concerning the post-Allende years.

For several years, Lerner has been Distinguished Professor of Human Behavior at the Graduate School of Human Behavior in San Diego, Calif. As a journalist, he travels extensively and has talked before university groups on six continents.

Buckley graduated cum laude from Yale University where he received his bachelor of arts degree.

Lerner also attended Yale University for his undergraduate and law studies. He received a doctor of philosophy degree from Brookings Graduate School of Economics and Government.

The debate is sponsored by the Special Events Committee.

Student stabbed at McMIndes

Aggravated assault charges have been filed by Ken Weltz, Ellis County attorney, against a Wiest Hall resident as a result of a fight in McMIndes Hall Monday night, according to Donald Brown, chief of campus security.

Robert Gamage, Salina freshman, inflicted a minor stab wound to the leg of Dean Rausch, Hoyt freshman. Brown said, Gamage used a pocket knife, Brown said, to inflict the wound to Rausch's anti-thigh of the right leg. Brown said the 9:10 p.m. fight resulted in an argument over a female Fort Hays State student. The name of the female is not being released, he added.

Blood Pressure Screening

Karol Klibbe, Aurora, Colo. senior, checks the blood pressure screening clinic sponsored by the Fort Hays State Nursing Department. The clinic began last week and continued with its second of three sessions yesterday. The three sessions should establish a baseline blood pressure measurement for each individual, however persons are still encouraged to have their blood pressure checked next Thursday afternoon at the Sheridan Coliseum Arena.

Student Senate discusses Homecoming elections

A discussion concerning Student Government Association's (SGA) involvement with Homecoming Queen elections resulted in the passage of a motion to form an ad hoc committee to initiate legislation on the matter at the Student Senate meeting last night.

In other action, the senate passed five pieces of legislation and rejected one resolution.

The motion to form an ad hoc committee to decide the SGA's role in Homecoming was made by Kristi Parry, Great Bend graduate student, after an open discussion by all senators while parliamentary procedure was suspended. The motion passed with 15 senators in favor, five opposed and three abstaining.

During the discussion, Student Body President Stan Teasley, Phillipsburg senior, pointed out that the only way to relieve SGA of its responsibility in the Homecoming Queen election was through an amendment to the statute which delegates this duty to SGA.

All senators said that they were opposed to continuing with the current procedure, but different opinions were voiced concerning what to do with the situation.

Sherry Searls, Wichita senior, said, "I think we should turn the election over to an interested group, but we should help establish guidelines for the running of the election. I feel this is our responsibility because we are student representatives."

"We must be concerned with the question of if any group on campus wants to hold the election," Keith Motzner, Wilson senior, said.

Administrative Assistant Rick Allton, Hays graduate student, said, "If you are thinking in terms of finding someone to run the election, you might think of putting it in the hands of the Homecoming Committee."

Brent Halderman, Long Island sophomore, also endorsed turning the election over to the Homecoming Committee. "The Homecoming Committee has representatives from every facet of the campus—all those who have been hitching and moaning the past few years—and this way they'd be there to write the rules," Halderman said. "I'm not a Homecoming Queen hater, but it is not a function of student government," he added.

Past problems with Homecoming elections were emphasized by Melissa Brack, Hoxington junior, who said that Homecoming elections have resulted in numerous court cases in the past few years and "it is time to do something about it."

Commenting after the meeting, Teasley said, "My signature upon legislation to relieve SGA from being responsible for the Homecoming election will entirely depend upon my interpretation of our constitutional responsibilities in regard to campus elections in general."

Two appropriations bills were passed by the senate. Bill 102 allocates $81 to reimburse Phi Beta Lambda for an officer who attended the Mountains Plains Region Conference in Kansas City. Bill 103 appropriates $157.40 to Mortar Board to help pay for 10 members attending their national convention in Wichita.

In response to Bill 102, Halderman warned that the senate "may be setting a very dangerous precedent by reimbursing a group after the fact." He added, "I'm not against the purpose, I just want to keep the situation from happening again."

Senate Statute 1106, defining the procedures for referendum elections and initiation of legislation, passed unanimously. Senate Bill 900, which states that Fort Hays State will participate in the Student Buying Power Card Program, also passed unanimously.

By a vote of six in favor, 12 opposed and two abstentions, Resolution 303, which states that SGA will support activities that support the senate resolution insisting on validated ID cards, was defeated.

Enrollment 'bucks' trend

Fort Hays State enrollment, with a record setting high of 5,678 total students this fall, is bucking a current national trend of declining college headcounts.

James R. Kellerman, registrar and director of admissions, said increased enrollment in continuing education is the reason the totals are up.

He added that the size of U.S. high school graduating classes, and consequently, the size of college freshman classes, has been on the decrease since 1976.

Kellerman agrees with Dr. Jimmy Rice, dean of the graduate school, that increased off-campus offerings for students in continuing education is the primary reason for local increases. He also gives FHS faculty members credit for their recruiting efforts.

Current freshman enrollment is up 86 students from a year ago, with 1,562 enrolled. Nine hundred and eight of the freshmen enrolled for the first time this fall; as well as 14 who began classes this summer.

Sophomores number 850; up 26. There are 11 more juniors, up from 853, and graduate enrollment is pegged at 1,613; up 320.

The senior class was the only one to decline and is currently placed at 796; down 68 from last fall.

FHS is also teaching 29 special undergraduate students. These are senior from area high schools who take some of their classes at the university. This number has not increased.

Two hundred and ninety three non-resident students from outside the state are enrolled here, too. That figure includes 91 international students. A year ago, FHS had a 286 member non-resident population, including 72 international students.

Transfers from Kansas junior colleges number 468. Kellerman said transfer enrollment generally swells the junior class, accounting for it being larger than the sophomore group.

In an interview last week, Student Body President Stan Teasley, Phillipsburg senior, said that despite large enrollment, overcrowding will not result here. He cites construction of a new classroom building, which will replace Rarick Hall and be completed in 1980, as his reason.

FHS enrollment figures are completed on campus through the university's own data processing system, Kellerman said. He explained that 20 days after enrollment, processing begins. It takes about a week to get initial figures.

Kellerman still has other figures to complete. Primarily, he has to finish numbers on how many students live in Greek houses, off-campus, in residence halls or in the Hays area and commute to school.

Professor injured in mishap

Dr. Albert Geritz, assistant professor of English at Fort Hays State, who was hospitalized in St. Anthony's Hospital after an accident last week is "determined to go home," says his wife, Becky Geritz.

Geritz was riding his bicycle on 27th Street Oct. 3 when he was struck by a van. Mrs. Geritz says her husband is doing much better, and has been moved from the hospital's intensive care unit to a general care section on second floor.

She says doctors haven't given any indication of when Geritz will be released, but he is definitely improving. His spirits are up, he recognizes people and is eating well, she said.

Geritz is still weak. His only complaint is a headache, due to a concussion.

"He is very close to his students," said Dr. Paul Gatschet, professor of English. Mrs. Geritz says students can send flowers or cards to the professor in Room 211 of the hospital.

Geritz began his second year at FHS this fall, teaching technical writing, composition, witchcraft and renaissance courses.

Other instructors are currently carrying his class load.

Student Advisory Council under limitations

by STEVE QUAKENBUSH
Staff Reporter

The State Board of Regent's Student Advisory Council (SAC) "has the potential to be effective," said Stan Teasley, Phillipsburg senior and representative to the committee by virtue of being Fort Hays State student body president.

The committee is designed to give the nearly 75,000 Kansas students attending the six institutions under the Regent's jurisdiction a direct line of communication.

Teasley notes that he and his colleagues can act only in an advisory capacity. Individual members cannot vote officially or have items placed on the Regent's agenda.

Teasley, who took his SAC post in April, said, "It takes a while to get to know people" before the student body presidents who make up SAC can become effective.

He said SAC has a continuity problem, too, because each member is elected at his own institution at a separate time. Therefore, each member takes his seat on the committee at a separate time.

SAC has no one major goal either, Teasley, claims. But he adds that he'd personally like to see members given the authority to place items on the Regent's agenda.

Teasley said that few issues have come to SAC's attention yet. He adds that some issues that do come to the committee's attention are ones that they are not totally concerned with because they do not directly affect students.

He cites the mandatory retirement age for faculty members one of these issues.

One item that currently does concern SAC, according to Teasley, is the issue of who pays utility bills for student union buildings.

Kansas State University, Teasley said, is building a new student union. Their representative would like to have a decision made in favor of the state paying the utility bills, which isn't the current policy.

The FHS Memorial Union has already had its utility costs covered by the state, according to Teasley.

Teasley said, "I know of no student body president who is so ego-minded that he can't represent his constituents," in response to recent comments made by a lobbyist who works close to the regents.

That lobbyist was recently quoted as saying, "Face it, sometimes their egos are so big, they're more worried about looking good themselves than looking after the student's best interests."

Changes in financial aids; revisions in work-study

Major changes are in the works for Fort Hays State students who receive financial aid.

At least one new program is being instituted here, according to Carrol Beardslee, director of financial aid, who says he'll know details on that program in the near future.

Other changes are in the making for the University work-study program.

The program, which is administered by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, through the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant program (BEOG), is to undergo at least three major revisions.

Application methods for FHS and other institutions that participate in the program will be simpler. But requests for federal funds will have to be based on estimates.

In the past, the allocation that colleges requested had only to be based on estimates.

Also, students who have jobs in addition to their work-study employment may see reductions in their incomes

New regulations state that if work-study income and income from other employment totals more than $200 over a student's actual college costs, the institution can cut the student's salary.

In lieu of a salary cut, an institution can apply any surplus to the student's financial aid for the following year.

Currently, a student's work-study salary is comprised of 20 per cent institutional funds and 80 per cent federal funds.

Additionally, students who study in foreign countries will no longer be able to use work-study money or BEOG money to pay higher-than-at-home tuition costs. They also will be unable to use the money to pay travel expenses.

But this regulation will only apply when a student is studying abroad as part of a program connected with his home institution.

Beardslee states that he will know more about the new program after attending an upcoming meeting designed to explain the new regulations in detail.

Debate team successful

The senior Fort Hays State debate team returned from the University of Kentucky national debate tournament Oct. 11. Kim Myers, Tucson, Ariz., sophomore, and Jay Fellers, Hays freshman, returned with a two and six record. They competed against teams from Harvard, Northwestern of Illinois, University of Ohio, Seton Hall of New Jersey, Emory of Atlanta, and Oklahoma Christian. The team defeated Fairmont University of West Virginia and University of Notre Dame.

Over 100 schools and 130 teams competed in the national contest. Teams from both coasts were entered.

Job agency searches for vets, minorities

The United States Foreign Service Reserve is looking for graduate degree holders in search of jobs. The agency needs people who will take its 1978 International Development Intern class, and work toward a position as a Foreign Service Reserve limited officer.

Areas open to limited officers included agriculture, economics, health, housing, population control, rural development and finance.

The maximum reserve salary of $16,172 is for jobs that may be located in developing nations in Asia, Africa, Latin America, or the Near East.

The application deadline is Nov. 1, 1977. Mildred Schuster, Fort Hays State Placement Office secretary, says students can pick up forms in Picken 100-109.

The agency is looking for employees from the ranks of veterans, minorities and women.

Job benefits, according to Placement Office sources, include paid vacation, sick leave,

Seminar to be held on resume writing

Fort Hays State seniors and graduate students interested in learning how to write more effective job application letters and resumes are invited to attend a seminar at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Picken 205. The seminar is sponsored by the Placement Office.

Richard Osborne, Placement Office director, will conduct the seminar, which "is designed to instruct prospective students in the art of preparing application letters and resumes which will present their qualifications in an original and well-organized manner."

Wahlmeier feels that the ERA is a bad piece of legislation and should be changed. "It is a wide-open bill with no specifics, and it would take the states' power away and give everything to the federal government," Wahlmeier said. She feels that if the ERA passes, the Human Life Amendment the Pro-life group is supporting will not be passed. Those people behind abortion are also behind ERA, said Wahlmeier. She stated that the ERA would not pass on its own merit without the pushing of the International Women's Year Congresses.

One other effect a successful farm strike would have at FHS would be felt in the Agriculture Department. Clark, who teaches agriculture economics, said a definite change would be in line for his classes.

But like the farm strike, even the experts don't know what the changes or results will be.

Tigerette tennis team wins again

Dodge City Community College and Pittsburg State both went down to defeat at the hands of the Tigerette tennis team last week.

In a dual meet with Dodge City last Friday, the Tigerette B-team came home with a victory, winning eight to one.

Five of the six singles players for FHS won, all in two sets. Patty Mastin won 6-4, 7-5; Tam Zeigler 6-2, 6-1; Chris Connors 6-3, 6-1; Diane Beougher 6-4, 6-2; and Terri Hooper 6-0, 6-1. Diane Beck was the only Tigerette to lose, 4-6, 3-6.

Doubles partners of Mastin-Beck, Zeigler-Beougher and Connors-Hooper all came home with victories in their doubles competition.

The next day the Tigerette varsity hosted Pittsburg State in a dual, winning the meet by a close five to four margin.

Sheri Piersall and Jana Choitz lost their singles matches; Piersall 1-6, 1-6; and Choitz 2-6, 2-6. However the remainder of the squad came through with wins in their singles competition. Donna Keener won in two sets by a score of 6-1, 6-4; Joan Klug won 6-2, 7-5; Cathy Jameson 6-1, 6-0; and Mastin 6-4, 6-2.

The doubles teams for Fort Hays State dropped two out of the three matches, but they won four out of the five singles matches, which enabled them to win the meet.

The Klug-Mastin team won their match 6-4, 6-2. Partners Keener-Jameson and Piersall-Choitz lost their matches 1-6, 7-5, 3-6 and 2-6, 2-6, respectively.

Today and tomorrow the Central States Conference (CSC) women's tennis tournament is being hosted by Emporia State. The singles competition started at 9 a.m. today, with the doubles getting underway at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Teams that will be competing in the conference tournament are Emporia State, Washburn, Pittsburg State, Wayne State, Missouri Western and FHS.

Head Coach Cindy Bross said, "We have yet to compete against Wayne State or Missouri Western so we really don't know how good they are or what to expect."

Seeds will be drawn for the tournament, but according to Bross, they should go like this: Piersall seeded second in number one singles; Choitz, second in number two singles; Keener, first in number three singles; Klug, first in number four singles; Jameson, first in number five singles; and Mastin, first in number six singles competition.

Tigerettes Keener and Klug are going into the CSC tournament undefeated in singles competition. In doubles competition, teams of Choitz-Piersall should be seeded second in number one doubles; Keener-Jameson second in number two doubles; and Klug-Mastin, first in number three doubles.

Martin to run in CC meet

Martha Martin, Healy senior, will be competing in the Cornhusker Invitational cross-country meet. This is the first year for women to compete in cross-country at Fort Hays State.

The meet will be at the University of Nebraska and according to Head Coach Nancy Popp, six teams will be competing.

Martin is a three-year track letterperson and was named the recipient of the Faculty Women's Scholarship this year.

She holds three individual records in the mile run, the 1500-meter run and 800-meter run, and shares records in the mile relay, distance medley relay, the two-mile relay and the medley relay.

Martin also was first in the Central States Conference (CSC) meet in the 1500-meter run in a time of 4:45.1 and was second in the 800-meter run in a time of 2:14.5.

In the Region Six AIAW championships in Wichita she scored the Tigerettes' 14 points by placing second in the 800-meter run and third in the 1500-meter run.

Forehand Winner

A member of the Tigerette tennis team hits a forehand in the back court. The women, who are undefeated in the Central States Conference (CSC), will be competing in the CSC championships today in Emporia. Their only loss was to Kansas State University in a non-conference game. The women finished fourth last season with a 11-6-1 record.

Dodgers should defeat Yanks in World Series

The emergence of the Kansas City Royals as a class baseball team had a lot of Kansas residents, as well as Fort Hays State students, buying tickets to the World Series.

But of course those "Damn Yankees" had other ideas. Now the World Series doesn't mean quite as much to a lot of people in Kansas. Include me in that group.

However, since I've put money on every World Series since I was a fourth grade, stand-out shortstop for the Manhattan Sunflower baseball team, I'll go out on a limb and pick the Dodgers.

Of course I'm not doing so good on predictions this year as you might recall. Remember when I picked the Tigers to win the Central States Conference (CSC) in football—well, so much for that prediction.

Oh well, at least nobody has started to call me Rodney the Greek.

My reason for picking Los Angeles to win the series is the stronger pitching staff the Dodgers have. But the two main reasons are that a kid from my home town, Abilene, is in the Dodger Triple A farm system. Ted Power is his name and it could become a familiar one in just a few years.

Power got off to a great start winning his first three games before an arm injury sidelined him. According to his mother, of whom my mother is a close friend, the Dodgers are counting on big things from Power.

The other reason I am rooting for the Dodgers is because of the hard-core Yankee fans in McGrath Hall who needed innocent Royals fans during the American League playoffs.

An apology to the Sig Eps. In the intramural notes last Tuesday I reported a football score as Sig Chi A 14, Sig Ep 0. In fact, the Sig Eps won the game. Rod

Leader From the Bench

Betts, a Sig Ep, informed me that a Sig Ep football team could never get beat.

Maybe so, but there is a lot of football to be played, but one Fort Hays State team almost proved they were unbeatable.

The Tigerette tennis team finished the regular season by losing just one match, that to the Kansas State Wildkittens. They finished the regular season with a 12-1 record and will be playing in the CSC championships today at Emporia State.

Last season the women finished with a 11-6-1 record and third in the CSC championships.

I've all but quit being an active member of the Crutch Club since my cast is off and only an ace bandage supports my ankle.

The club didn't catch on quite like I expected since the club has only three active members. The third is Kim Snyder from Agnew Hall. Looking through the Sports Book, furnished by the Sports Information Department, I noticed that Fort Hays State finished second in total conference rankings in all sports competition. That is, they consistently finish higher in all the sports than the other conference teams.

Although Missouri Western and Pittsburg State had less points they did not compete in all sports.

Tiger teams will have to hustle if the football team does not improve their current standings in the league. There is a big difference between one point and eight.

Last season the football, track and golf teams each finished first, while cross country was second, followed by the baseball team in third, tennis in fifth and basketball in seventh.

Tigerettes enter CSC playoffs

With an undefeated league record the Tigerette tennis team will be playing in the Central States Conference (CSC) championship today at Emporia.

The women defeated Pittsburg State 5-4 Saturday to keep their perfect conference record intact.

The Tigerettes have defeated Pittsburg State, Washburn and Emporia State each twice in conference play.

"We are going to have to play good, sound tennis today," said Head Coach Cindy Bross.

"Pittsburg played well Saturday, and may pose a problem in the conference meet," she continued.

The only loss the Tigerettes suffered this season was on the road to the Kansas State Wildkittens. The women are 13-1.

Joan Klug has posted a 10-1 record in singles and an 8-2 mark in doubles to pace the team.

Following the CSC meet, the Tigerettes will travel to McPherson College before returning home to host the state championships Oct. 28.

The meet is scheduled for the outdoor tennis courts, but in case of inclement weather the match will be in Cunningham Hall on the practice basketball courts.

Last season the women finished third in the CSC championships behind Pittsburg State and Emporia State. Joan Bahr placed third in the number one singles, while Cathy Jameson and Barb Wilhelm finished fifth in number one doubles.

Vets Club sponsors booth, provides assistance to vets

by RAYMOND QUINTON
Staff Reporter

"We need to get together and help each other with problems that need solving," said Todd Fuller, Wichita graduate student, when asked to explain the reason Veterans Club was formed. He also said it offered people from various places and backgrounds a chance to get together and share their experiences from the past as well as experiences shared while in the club.

To qualify as a member, a person must be a dependent of a veteran and drawing Veterans Administration (VA) assistance. They can also qualify by being a member of the National Guard or National Reserves. As it stands now, the Vets Club has 450 active members, according to Fuller.

Meetings for the Vets Club are held on the first and third Tuesday of each month throughout the year. The meetings are held in the Memorial Union and elected officers are responsible for conducting the meetings. Officers for the Vets Club are: Ralph Sunley, Hays sophomore, president; Bruce Sloan, Hays graduate student, vice-president; and Stewart Mills, Lawrence sophomore, secretary. The representative of the Vets Club on campus is Dan Jamerson, Hays graduate student.

The Vets Club has many projects and activities planned for this year, among them are: intramurals, community projects, Oktoberfest and Homecoming activities along with furlough.

Intramural sports offer a chance for Vets Club members to form teams, compete with, and meet people in different clubs and organizations. The Vets Club has teams participating in bowling, football and other intramural activities.

For Oktoberfest the Vets Club set up a dart booth game. This game was very popular and profitable last year so the Oktoberfest Activities Board asked the Vets Club to sponsor the game again. The Vets Club also sponsored Jodi Spadi.

Furlough is a day set aside for recreational activities. During furlough the Vets Club makes arrangements with other groups and organizations to donate or "chip in" money for various activities. One game played during furlough is called the Volkswagen push which consists of: one Volkswagen, several people to form teams and one timer per team. The object of the game is to see which team can push the Volkswagen around a designated area with the least amount of time elapsing.

There will also be frisbee throws and bicycle races. The time and date for furlough has not been set but will be decided on later this year.

Aside from sponsoring recreational activities, the Vets Club works to aid with community projects and helps other veterans who need academic counseling. The counseling program can be voluntary or sponsored by the VA. If a club member is having problems in classes, a tutor will be suggested for him. The VA will pay volunteer tutors up to $65 a month for their services.

Fuller, who is an active member of the Vets Club, feels that the club is very beneficial. He also said, "Veterans are not as recognized as they should be and it takes the effort of all the veterans to get together and be heard."
